HOW TALC IS QUARRIED.

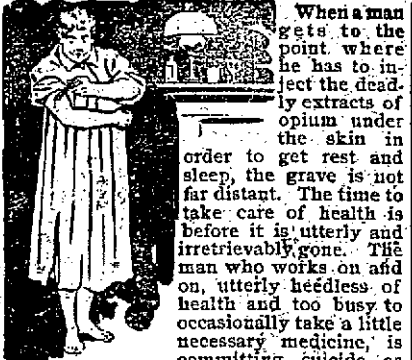

Where It Comes From and the Manner of Sending It to Market.

At Luzerne, in the upper valley of the Arago, talc is quarried on an extensive scale in the granite of St. Bartholomew, a mountain 7,700 feet high and about 30 miles from the main chain of the Pyrenees. The quarries, which are situated about two miles from the summit and 5,000 feet above the sea, are worked in a ledge deposit, inclined between micaceous below and lower siliceous slates above, which has been followed for about 2,000 yards in a north and south direction, with a dip of about 30 degrees to the east, the thickness varying from 150 to 1,000 feet, as does also the composition. Masses of limestone and granite, the latter often of considerable size, are frequently found in the siliceous zone of magnesia, which the talc is found in.

The first work is of a brilliant white color and is very fine. The principal quarry, at Luzerne, is worked in the granite, between the bed of the Arago, which gives off three terraces 50 feet high, the surface varying, 8 to 10 feet thick, having been first stripped. In the royal family it is always the queen who first kisses the wife after her marriage, not the newly married husband.

When a man gets to the point where he has to take the deadly extracts of opium under the skin in order to get rest and sleep, the grave is not far distant. The time to take care of health is before it is irretrievably gone. The man who works on and on, utterly heedless of health and too busy to occasionally take a little necessary medicine, is committing suicide as surely as if he turned a pistol on his heart. Such a man dies by a little degree. First a little indigestion and a little neglect. Then loss of appetite. The bowels get clogged and the blood receives poisons instead of healthy nutriment. Old, inert tissues in flesh, muscle, nerve and brain are not replaced by new. The whole body gets stale. The very sleeping-room of a man in this condition is filled in the morning with an unwholesome odor as if it had been occupied by a decomposing corpse. It has been occupied by a man half-dead. The poisoned brain refuses to sleep and hates to work. Then comes the resort to the hypodermic injection of morphia and speedy death. All this may be prevented by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, makes assimilation perfect, fills the blood with the vital elements that make new tissue, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles, strong nerves and active brain cells. It drives out impurities and disease. Thousands of men in all walks of life have testified to its wonderful merits.

It is an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to attempt to palm off upon you a substitute for this world-famed medicine. You want what you want. It is his business to meet that want. When he urges some substitute he is thinking of the larger profit he'll make out of your weakness. Shun all such dishonest dealers.

The man or woman who is regular as clockwork is seldom troubled with disease or mental or bodily lassitude. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a safe, sure, speedy and permanent cure for constipation. "One little 'Pelle' is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. You will have reason to regret it if you let a dishonest druggist induce you to take a substitute.

The Stormy Career of the Little Island of Crete.

There are not many islands with a more stormy or more heroic history than that of Crete. In remote antiquity it was the redoubtable "Isle of One Hundred Cities" and had an illustrious line of kings, among who were Rhamanathus, Minos and Idomenus. The last named led a fleet of 80 ships to assist in the conquest of Troy and was the last of what we may call the legendary kings. After him a gap of several centuries occurs, and when the record is resumed it is no longer a fable, but authentic history.

At the time of the Persian invasion of Greece the island was populous and powerful. It was divided into several independent republics, which, like those of peninsular Hellas, were not always in peace and friendship with each other. They kept free from foreign wars, however, except as they voluntarily furnished mercenary troops to whichever side would pay the best for them. This was done in both the Persian and Peloponnesian wars, when the Cretan archers were as noted and as dreaded as those of merry England in later days.

The prowess of the ancient Cretans and their insular position kept them free from invasion down almost to the Christian era. While the eagles of Rome "flapped wide wings in fiery flight" over nearly all else of the known world that island retained its independence. Indeed it was only through intestine quarrels that it was at last subdued. Some 70 years before the Christian era Rome took advantage of the prevailing discord in Crete to invade the island, on the pretext that the Cretans had given aid and comfort to Mithridates and had treated some Roman soldiers. The first army was repulsed and almost annihilated by the Cretans.

But Rome was determined to achieve the conquest if it took the whole power of her empire. Army after army was sent, and after three years of desperate fighting Rome prevailed. For the first time in her history Crete became, in 68 B. C., subject to an alien master. From that day to the present, for more than 1900 years, she has been a conquered province, never once regaining the independence so long maintained and so reluctantly relinquished.—New York Tribune.

A TERRIER'S REVENGE.

Summoned His Faithful Friend and Obtained Satisfaction.

This dog story was told to a reporter by a lady who vouches for its accuracy. Remarkable as it is, she affirms that it is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth:

An up the estate family had two dogs—a bulldog and a black and tan—between which there existed every evidence of deep friendship. The family went into the country one summer some 10 miles from home. They took the black and tan with them, but left his companion at home. They had not been established in their summer quarters more than a few days before the small dog had managed to pick a quarrel with a neighbor's bulldog, in which the black and tan got much the worse of the argument, so much so that when he disappeared after the battle his owners were much worried. They searched high and low, but no trace of that small dog could be found.

The next morning there was seen coming up the road side by side the black and tan and his faithful companion, the bulldog, from home. The two marched straight past the hotel where the family were staying and halted in front of the home of the black and tan's enemy. In some unknown manner the country bulldog was summoned, and immediately the city countryman fell upon him. The struggle was severe and prolonged, but the issue was never in doubt. The country bulldog was completely defeated and retired in as good order as possible, with the circumstance that he was a little out of breath. The black and tan was quite complete in his triumph, and he returned home with a very high opinion of complete satisfaction. He was a little out of breath, but he was a little out of breath.

THE SNOW MIRACLE.

"The age of miracles," they say, "is past. Christ walks no more upon the yielding waves. Now does the Spirit breathe, to bless or save, On mortal man." And then the winter blast Comes shrieking from beyond the sunset glow; The dancing waves grow solid as a floor. To bear the burden of one wonder more—God breathes upon the mist, and lo! the snow.—J. L. Henton in "The Quilting Bee."

A YOUTH'S ADVENTURES.

Which, Whether Truth or Fiction, Are Decidedly Interesting.

When riding in the train car through the wildest parts of Bohemia, E. E. writes a contributor to the London News, with a friend—we were bound on a journalistic errand—a bronzed young man of marine appearance jumped into the car and at once recognized my companion. Before we had gone very far I was deep in one of the oddest family histories. This new arrival, it seems, when a boy of 14, had been possessed by the fear of consumption, that fell disease having carried off his brother and threatening his father and mother. Accordingly he read every book that he could lay his hands on dealing with the subject, and, as the result of his reading, ran away to Bournemouth to be near the pines. Having no funds, he engaged himself to a local fishmonger, carrying his master's fish to the various customers. When the day's work was done, he shouldered a hammock which he had brought with him and camped among some of those pines for which that southern health resort is famous.

One night a gentleman, sauntering along, smoking a cigar, noticed him, and, being amazed at this "al fresco" bed, entered into conversation with him. "Why, I know who you are," exclaimed the consumptive youth at last. "You're Mr. Louis Stevenson, the man who wrote 'Treasure Island.' " "How do you know?" said the gentleman. "Because I deliver you fish. You live at Skerryvore." "So I do," replied Stevenson, for he it was sure enough. "But you don't talk like a fishmonger's boy." "No more I do," replied the boy, and he then poured his strange secret into the novelist's ear, which was sympathetic enough, you may be sure.

The result of this odd meeting was an invitation to breakfast. "Oh, and I did eat," said the young man. He told the story so loudly that the whole train laughed. "And the servants couldn't make it out at all to see the distinguished author entertaining poor me. Then he went to Paris, and I never saw him again for a long while." The pines not proving strong enough, the strange youth was seized with a yearning for the scent of the eucalyptus and persuaded his friends to send him to sea. When he reached Sydney, he sold his outfit and ran away into the bush and lived in the open with eucalyptus galore. Thence, after many adventures, he sailed for the south seas, and abode by reef and palm for many a long year.

One day, when cruising as supercargo among the Gilbert islands, I think, a European swell in beautiful white duck, a great red hat and a spreading sunshade, with a peacock's feather in it, came aboard the schooner. "Good morning," Mr. Stevenson, said the supercargo. Mr. Stevenson looked and wondered who knew him in these far-off seas. "I don't know you," he said, shaking his head. "But I know you. Don't you remember the fishmonger's boy who ate such a big breakfast at Skerryvore?" "So I do. Well, the world is small indeed." And no doubt the two had pegs and tiffin—or whatever they call such things in the islands—together. What a strange, small world it is indeed! Well, one succumbed to the dread disease; the other is as hearty a fellow as ever I saw.—It was a quaint, grim fancy to go dodging phthisis all over the world!—London News.

Law For the Poor.

The Legal Aid society gives legal assistance to the poor of New York who cannot afford lawyers' fees. It has expended 20 years, has cared for 80,000 cases and secured over $500,000 to its needy clients. It is supported by voluntary contributions.

One of Milton's biographers says that nearly 20 years elapsed between the sketching out of the plan of "Paradise Lost" and the completion of that work. The actual labor of composition was condensed into three years.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills Cure a Prominent Citizen of Lowell, Mass., After Being Confined to His Bed Twelve Weeks with Rheumatism, and on Crutches for Ten Months.

Lowell, Mass., June 17th, 1896.

Hobbs Remedy Co. Gentlemen—I had what the doctor called Chronic Rheumatism of the marrow. I was confined to my bed for twelve weeks and compelled to use crutches for ten months. I tried a number of physicians and many different medicines without obtaining relief.

Upon seeing your advertisement in the Boston papers, of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills I concluded to give them a trial. After using three boxes, together with your Hobbs' Little Liver Pills, according to directions, I began to feel benefited and after I had used five and one-half boxes of the Sparagus Kidney Pills, I was completely cured. I am well known by many people in Lowell, who knew of my condition and can vouch for the truth of my statement.

I give this testimonial freely and unsolicited and I am willing to answer questions to any and all who may be interested, and will be glad to do so, for I can fully appreciate the sufferings occasioned by rheumatism. I advise all persons so afflicted to use Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

I never intend to be without the pills myself, and my friends know that I never lose an opportunity of recommending them. I am, very gratefully, EDWIN G. VINALL, With Opera Cigar & Tobacco Co. 343 Central Street, Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, 50 cents per box. Six for $2.50.

Composer Tours. English papers announce the death, after a long illness, of Berthold Tours, the well known musician and composer. Mr. Tours was a Dutchman by birth, having been born in Rotterdam in 1838. He studied at Leipzig and Brussels, went to England in 1861 and for a good many years served as a violinist in Costa's orchestra. For the last 19 years, however, he had occupied the responsible post of reader and editor to the great firm of Novello & Co., in which capacity he did an immense amount of useful work in the "reduction" of orchestral scores to their piano-forte form. He was also a voluminous composer of graceful violin pieces, songs, hymn tunes, anthems and church services.

DERIDING NEVADA.

The fact that Nevada favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the historic ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States without waiting for the consent of foreign nations has made it the target for the abuse and vilification of several eastern newspapers and politicians. The pretext for this is that Nevada has not sufficient population to entitle it to Statehood and representation in the Senate of the United States. The remedy suggested is that the State be relegated to a territorial condition so that it shall not have a vote in Congress or in the election of a President.

On the last day of October, 1864, Nevada was admitted into the galaxy of States by proclamation of President Lincoln. At the first State election held November 6, 1866, the total vote for Congressman was 6,157, which was 3,620 less than was polled for Congressman at the election in November, 1866. No objection was made to the admission of Nevada as a State, though its voting population was much less than it is now and President Lincoln referred in complimentary terms to the young State, which was furnishing gold and silver for the support of the Government during the war, when the Eastern gold kings refused to let the Government have a dollar in coin for less than two or three dollars in interest-bearing bonds or Government notes. Then Nevada with its 6,000 voters was not reviled and it was willingly admitted into the Union as a sovereign State. Now, though its voting population has increased 35 per cent, they would deprive it of Statehood because, forsooth, it does not acquiesce in the policy of making the United States a financial dependency of Great Britain.

But as proof of the insincerity of the blatant hypocrites, who would deprive Nevada of Statehood because of its scant population, it is only necessary to revert to the admission of Idaho and Wyoming. These States, with few if any more inhabitants than Nevada, but at the time of their admission believed to be in line with the policy of the gold men, were invited to enter the Union. The matter of population was not considered by the party in power, as it wanted to strengthen its position regardless of all other considerations. Now the leaders of this same party are hating themselves because the citizens of Idaho and Wyoming, like those of Nevada will not bow submissively to the gold trust and obey its mandates.

But what would be the condition of several of the New England States if they were treated by the General Government as are the States west of the Missouri? Would they be more populous than Nevada, Idaho and Wyoming if the products of their factories were treated as are the product of the silver mines of the West? Have not the principal industries of these far Eastern States been fostered and protected by the Government at the expense of the rest of the country, while the principal industry of the silver producing States has been placed at the tender mercy of the money kings of Europe? What if the products of the looms of New England had to find a market in Europe by reason of hostile legislation on the part of Congress, as the product of the silver mines of the West have to? Would not the manufacturing towns of that country be abandoned as many of the farms now are? Restore silver to the place which it occupied when Nevada became a State, and of which it was deprived by hostile legislation, and Nevada will double its population within a year and be one of the best customers that New England can find for its products.

WILL IT EVER PASS?

The Dingley tariff bill is still the principal topic of news from the seat of government. Cuban resolutions and an occasional reference to the Greco-Turkish war serves as a little side entertainment for the wise men of the nation, while frequent adjournments of extended duration give opportunity to recuperate their overstrained mental powers. In the interim the people, oppressed with falling prices and the daily increasing depression of every industry and means of gaining an honest livelihood in the land, are waiting with the patience that is brought through suffering and as yet there is little hope of relief. The failure of banks are of daily occurrence, mills are shut down, mines closed and business stagnation becoming more apparent every hour and still we are told that prosperity is almost upon us and that the Dingley tariff bill is sure to bring it all about immediately on its passage.

Will it ever pass? Isn't it a will-o'-wisp, a delusion or some other uncanny thing that for months the people have built up hopes upon hopes only in the end to be disappointed and find themselves in worse straits than ever. It has been amended and rewritten by the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, side-tracked and switched until its author, had he not been a member of the combine and simply gave his name to the measure because it had to have something to identify it by, would never recognize it. How long, oh how long, will the people of this great country be hoodwinked and fooled by the grand-stand plays of men at the head of the Government who have no more heart or feeling for their fellow beings than a hungry wolf for his wounded mate.

TWO BANKS FAIL.

THE SENATE CONSIDERS THE CUBAN QUESTION.

A Man Attempts to Kill His Divorced Wife at Randsburg.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Cuban resolution again came up in the Senate this afternoon. Morgan opposed a motion to adjourn to-morrow until Monday. He said that as a member of the sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations which sought information regarding the condition of Cuba, he refused to accept consular information at the hands of the executive with an injunction of secrecy imposed. Two other members of the committee received information, but would not consent to receive information which they could not impart to the other members of the Senate. It was said that the injunction to secrecy applied only to the names of consuls. In reply to a question from White, Morgan said that both the President and Secretary of State had imposed this condition. A motion to adjourn from to-morrow until Monday was agreed to.

Vest asked, in view of the fact that there was fear of danger to the consuls in giving their names, if the Government had sent any gunboat to Cuba for their protection. No one replied. Hoar said that he wanted an early vote; he wanted the resolution out of the way of the tariff. Gullinger said that the Cuban resolution had been before the Senate for forty-nine days, yet complaint was made by its opponents that they had not had time to present their views. He thought that the Senate had made a mistake in agreeing to adjourn until Monday. Cannon said that parties would come and go, but that jingoism would go on forever, so long as such a mad dog as Weyler was at large. Weyler he characterized as a ravisher of women and an assassin of men.

He said that the Senate should be a temple of liberty, but that instead he could have believed from the utterances here that he was in Spain in the Cortes. It was evident, he said, that the money changers were in the temple. He adjured the United States to learn to stand alone politically, internationally, financially; to bid for European capital was to invite further enslavement.

A DISTINGUISHED MISS.

The Honolulu Heiress Who Wears a Humane Officer's Badge.

Miss Helen Wilder, youngest daughter of Mrs. E. K. Wilder, the mistress of a large fortune and one of the most popular society girls in Honolulu, has been specially honored by the attorney general by receiving a commission as a humane officer. The badge of her office, a handsome silver plate, was pinned on her breast by Marshal Arthur M. Brown a few days ago, and Miss Wilder wears it with much pride.

Miss Wilder has the distinction of being the first woman in the Hawaiian Islands who has been appointed a humane officer. The honor was conferred upon her unsolicited by the attorney general in recognition of her frequent efforts to relieve dumb brutes and bring cruel masters to punishment. Miss Wilder is reputed to be the wealthiest heiress on the islands. She is a great favorite in society, and has a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances on the coast.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Queen Victoria's Drawing Room.

Queen Victoria's drawing room, and especially the first one of the year, is of great significance in the world of fashion in London, but this year's was one of exceptional interest, and as the queen personally held this function the scene was one of unusual brilliancy in the costumes of the women. The queen and the ladies in the royal circle were all dressed in black or black and white, but every color known was represented by the ladies who attended. Satin gowns, either brocade or plain, were the rule, and many of the trains were made of velvet in some contrasting color or of the same satin lined with another color, and all arranged to hang from each shoulder.

The special feature of drawing room dress was the abundance of fine real lace, some of which was of great historical value. A square of fine point d'angleterre, which was the property of Marie Antoinette, was worn by one woman, caught in at one shoulder where the train was attached. The motto and crown of the house of Austria and the initials "M. A." were wrought in the pattern. Point lace worn by the Empress Josephine adorned another gown, and was held in place by gold buckles worn by George IV. Fine molton, chauntilly and venetian point were well represented, and other superb laces, both old and new. Quiet elegance and not so much garish splendor in the use of strong contrasts of color characterized the prevailing modes of dress. Scarfs and fionces of beautiful lace were draped on the trains of gowns and caught up with sprays of flowers or ostrich feathers, and lovely jeweled embroidery had a place on brocade silks, where it traced the pattern.—New York Sun.

He Knew Where to Go.

The Boston Traveler recounts a funny incident which took place in superior court in that city in the trial of one Belbo. A witness, after telling some of Belbo's alleged facts, went on to recount an unpleasant experience he had with the accused a few weeks before the matter got into court.

"I called at his office," said the witness, "to try to compel him to return the money he secured from me by false representation. He ordered me from his office, and as I didn't care to be assaulted I concluded to obey him. As I was going out he told me to go to."

"And in consequence of what he told you to do, what did you do?" inquired Assistant District Attorney Sughrue. "Went straight to police headquarters," replied the witness. "It is needless to add that the solemnity of the court was disturbed for the next five minutes."

The Viavi Cause.

It is impossible to take Viavi into the system without benefit. It is purely vegetable and as a nerve and tissue builder has no equal. It can be used with perfect safety by the most delicate, and is used upon the smallest children.

Patrons of the remedy can consult our physicians free of charge. I will take pleasure in explaining its various uses to all who may call.

SILVER FORCES UNITED.

Mr. Newland's Says No Real
Dissension Exists.

BAILEY AND HIS POLICY.

His Position Said to be Sanctioned
By the Vast Majority of the Silver Men of the Three anti-Republican Elements
in the House.

Congressman Newlands, of Nevada was interviewed yesterday regarding the reported dissensions among the silver forces. "No real dissension exists," said Mr. Newlands; "the Democrats, the Populists, and the Silver men are as united to-day in opposition to the financial policy of the Republican Party as they were at the last election, and they will stand together at the coming Congressional and Presidential elections. They may differ as to methods of procedure, but they all agree that the financial question is the crucial issue, however much they may differ upon other subordinate questions and I am glad to say that as to all these other questions the utmost tolerance of view exists, each individual being accorded full liberty of action according to his convictions."

"As the opposition in the House consists of three independent political forces—the Democrats, Populists and Silver men—it is difficult, of course, to unite on a House leader who will represent them in all things, and as the Democratic Party constitutes the largest opposition force in the House, the leadership of Mr. Bailey becomes the most conspicuous."

MR. BAILEY AND HIS POLICY.

"Some differences of opinion have arisen as to the methods of procedure, but those differences mean nothing, except that all are in earnest as to the accomplishment of a common purpose. There are some who believe that, notwithstanding the extra session was called to meet a particular exigency—the deficiency of revenue—the House should immediately take up general legislation, and, as the Republicans are unwilling to do this, they should be brought face to face with the failure to discharge their duty by obstructive methods that will drive them into the appointment of committees and the enactment of general legislation. Mr. Bailey, however, is of the opinion that the dominant party in the House has the power, as it also has the right, to determine when it will enter upon certain legislation, and it is neither a dignified nor a patriotic thing for the opposition to goad them into monetary legislation for which the Republicans themselves confess they are unprepared, and legislation which the opposition will probably contest at every inch, and which if finally passed, the opposition will regard as involving a calamity to the entire country. He also takes the view that when an issue has been fully and fairly presented at an election, the dominant party should have a fair opportunity to test its policy by legislation, and that the condition of the country is so serious as not to warrant the playing of small politics by the opposition."

INDORSER MR. BAILEY'S ACTION.

"From all I can learn, the position of Mr. Bailey is sanctioned by the vast majority of the silver men; it certainly has my unqualified indorsement. I believe the last election was lost simply because the conservative sentiment of the country was alarmed by the exaggerated statements regarding the revolutionary purposes of the silver forces. I do not believe that any election can be won in this country if the conservative sentiment is unduly alarmed. I believe that all the silver forces have to do in order to win a great victory, is to impress the country with the wisdom, the dignity, the tolerance of their movement, and I believe that the dignified and tolerant position taken by the opposition forces as to tariff will do much to eliminate all disturbing element of discussion at the next campaign, and to make the issue a clean and direct one, between bimetalism on one side and monometallism on the other."

SINCERITY OF HIS OPPONENTS UNQUESTIONED.

"However this may be, I am entirely tolerant of the views of those silver men who believe in guerilla warfare, in fighting at every crossroad, and in obstructing, embarrassing and harassing the dominant party at every turn. I do not question the sincerity of their motives, though I differ from them as to methods."

"But whatever difference there may be as to methods, I wish to state most emphatically that there is no real dissension among the silver forces. There is not a leader who does not recognize the importance of union, and although some people have tried to give the impression that Mr. Bailey believes that the Democratic party has no need of allies, and that the different elements constituting the allied forces should be driven into and forced to become a part of the Democratic organization, I know, from an exchange of views with him upon the subject, that he attaches as much importance to the union of the forces, as Mr. Bryan himself, and that he views with absolute tolerance all differences of conviction between the different elements of the opposition as to questions other than the money question."

"The true policy of the silver men is to unify the issues so as to present the money question alone to the people for decision. The people are tired of fights over tariff schedules. The non-action of the Republican Party on the money question will be as detrimental to that party as bad action, and it is not necessary for us to turn the House into a circus every day to keep the people apprised that the Republicans are doing nothing."—Washington Post, May 15, 1897.

CITY COUNCIL.

A Meeting of the Board to study City Finances.

The Board of City Councilmen met last evening, all being present except Councilman Wells.

The object of the meeting was to consider the funds on hand, funds available for city use and other matters pertaining to the finances of the city. With this in view a detailed and carefully compiled report of the resources and liabilities of the town government was presented, read and placed on file. The following is the substance of the report:

On University bonds issued in the year 1885 for $25,000, $15,000 of which is still unpaid with an accruing interest of $3,200.

Park bonds amounting to $6,000 with an accruing interest of $900, and a second issue in 1893 of $1,000 with interest of $120.

Sewer Bonds, $20,000 issued in 1889, with a balance of $12,000 unpaid with a possible interest of $5,220. In 1891 a second issue of $5,000 was made with a possible interest of $1,830. Some of these bonds with interest have been settled, leaving unpaid the following:

University $14,000—Interest $5,440
Park Bonds 6,000—Interest 720
Sewer Bonds 12,000—Interest 5,220
Sewer Bonds 5,000—Interest 1,830

$37,000 $12,910
A total of $49,910 to be met by the city authorities.

The report details the amount received from personal property tax in town limits and the amount paid in bonds and interest by the Commissioners during the year 1896. The disbursements of city funds by the treasurer since January 1, 1897, amounts to $10,065 42.

After showing the receipts from taxable sources for 1896, and also the revenue for the present year up to May 1, 1897. And the deductions for disbursements, transfers in funds, etc., for various purposes, the following statement is made:

RESOURCES.

Cash in city funds May 1st. $4,022.14
Lease bill allowed for April. 898 08

Balance 3,128 50

Resources, including licenses from saloons, gambling, etc. $1,718 63

$4,847 19

LIABILITIES.

Disbursements per month, including Fire Department, water, Road Overseer, City Clerk, books, stationery, and other expenses already contracted for and estimated, $711.75, or for the 8 months of 1897. $5,694 00

This does not include the amount resulting from taxes nor the possible expense of Police Judge, City Marshal, repairs, incidentals, etc. From this estimate the city will run short of paying out each month $105 86, or $846 88 for the eight remaining months of 1897, and as the law does not permit the Council to contract bills without having the necessary funds in sight to meet them, the members are at a loss as to how to proceed, unless the Commissioners levy a special tax on city property to meet the bonds and interest thereon provided by act of Legislature. This estimate is made without considering the electric lights and other almost necessary expenses, the bonds alone requiring the sum of $3,500, and interest amounting to $1,530 for 1897.

The tax levy is given in the report to show that the City Council must out their cloth according to the revenue or funds they will have at their command, and the orders made by the Board of County Commissioners regarding the transfer of certain funds and the liability of the City Board are given from the minutes, and while it is the desire to give the best of service possible in every way, the Councilmen are only permitted to proceed within the strict letter of the incorporation act.

A Well-Known Young Man.

Mr. Ed. Lachman is one of the best known young men in Reno. The following statement will explain itself:

"Reno, September 4, 1896."

"On Saturday last, while wheeling down the steep grade beyond the Mound House, I had a fall which severely sprained the muscles and tendons about my right hip and so bruised my knee that it was swollen, discolored and painful to the touch. That evening I procured a bottle of Trib and applied it. The next day I could walk and ride easily, and after using Trib twice a day for four consecutive days I was completely cured. I never before knew the value of a good liniment. I shall not be without a bottle of Trib hereafter. Use my name if you see fit. Trib is a good article, the knowledge of which I am willing to aid in spreading."

EDMUND D. LACHMAN.

The above was written to the Trib Company eight months ago. Mr. Lachman says that the cure has proved permanent, and that many of his acquaintances have to his knowledge used Trib with advantage.

CONDENSED TESTIMONY.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturers Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Port Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 222 E. 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

LET YOUR NAME LIVE AS A PLEASANT MEMORY.

If some philanthropic citizen, or any number for that matter, desires to do an act now that will carry his or their names down to posterity, subscribe a neat sum to the High School bell fund. Remember that the story will be told over and over again to the children, by the teachers and the names of the donors will be recalled and good wishes whispered for their welfare as the bell calls the merry children to school. The opportunity is at hand; who will head the list with a double eagle and have his or her name live in the memory of Reno's school children.

GRAPES AND THE APPENDIX
The Little Seeds Are Not So Dangerous as Has Been Claimed.
Things have been said about the baneful and delicious juice of the grape ever since the olden time when Noah found out about it and came, thereby to grief,
but even before that men ate grapes,
and only within the last decade have they been talked to about that. It is only since surgeons began to make money hunting for grape seeds in the vermiform appendix, that people have been afraid to eat grapes and to eat them straight.
It now appears that in all the thousands of cases, famous and possibly in some cases infamous, in which this new fashioned surgical operation has been performed there is not one case in which a grape seed, or any other little unlabeled thing has been found in the vermiform appendix. The whole interior of the appendix is only big enough to admit a medium sized dining needle.
Nobody knows what it is there for, but it must have been useful at some time.
It is a case of the survival of the unfit,
like the wisdom teeth, which are of so little use to most people, and the tonsils, which cause so much trouble now and then.
The tonsils and the appendix are both unused parts of the body and peculiarly liable to disease because they are not strengthened by use. If inflammation attacks them, they are unable to resist. Thus many diseases which have been ascribed to peritonitis or colitis or a mysterious providence of some kind have been due to the diseased condition of this little useless organ of the human system, and if the trouble had been discovered in time the appendix could have been removed, and all would have been well.
The remedy, therefore, is not in avoiding grape seeds, which do not cause the trouble, but in keeping as well and as strong as possible, and in case of sudden illness calling a reliable doctor, who will know what the matter is.
Somebody once said that most people use a doctor to enable them to sin against the laws of nature with impunity.
But that is a bad use for him.—

A BIT OF HISTORY.
Germantown, Pa., Was Once Called the Capital of the Country.
A pupil in the Boys' Grammar school,
on Lafayette street, Germantown, was asked by his teacher "when the first congress occupied the Germantown academy, located on West School lane."
It was a puzzle, of course, to the young scholar, who was at a loss to find anything in print verifying such an event.
The facts, however, from which the false impression has frequently obtained are as follows: The government of the United States was first inaugurated in New York in 1789, but by act of congress Philadelphia was made the capital of the nation from 1790 until 1800. In 1793 the yellow fever became epidemic in this city, and it was in October of that year that the governor of Pennsylvania asked the board of trustees to accommodate the house of assembly, and a similar request for quarters came from congress.
At the November meeting following the board professed to congress the choice of the school building, but there is no minute evidence to show that congress accepted the generous offer. At this time Washington resided in Germantown, and the town was spoken of as the government place of the state, and also of the United States. Jefferson, then secretary of state, and Randolph,
attorney general, occupied the building,
some years ago torn down to extend the site on which the National bank now stands, at Main street and School lane.
So, with Washington, Thomas Jefferson and John Randolph residing in Germantown; it is not strange that the conclusion should be formed that congress was in session at the same time. Although the Germantown academy never had the honor of accommodating congress, a few years later, in 1793, when the yellow fever made its appearance
again in this city, the banks of North America and of Pennsylvania did find a temporary place of safety in the old academy.—Philadelphia Record.

Lace Lappets.
If you know anybody who has a pair of old fashioned lace lappets, says a fashion writer, you may recommend her to utilize these in the following fashion: On the next evening or dinner gown the lappets may begin almost touching each other at the waist, and,
gradually parting, form a triumphant down the front of the skirt, ending in immense quadruple bows of satin rib-ben, which must be stabbed through with diamond buttons or clasps, or, another way, as the cookery books say, line the lappets with velvet or satin of some bright color and turn them into bretelles, crossing the shoulders and meeting just above the waist, back and front. Should any one wish to insult and vulgarize her beautiful old lace with a touch of modernity she can buy rhinestones or imitation emeralds, sapphires or rubies and sew them all over it.
